DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Weisman et al. (US 6,839,417 B1).

Regarding claims 1, 15 and 17, Weisman discloses a method comprising:
receiving into a conference-call-setup-system (18 on FIG. 1) a request from a user to join a teleconference, wherein the request indicates a subject matter of the teleconference (column 16, lines 52-63);
learning a location of the user (column 24, lines 52-62); selecting a teleconference based on (i) the location and (ii) the subject matter (column 24, lines 52-62); and joining the user into the teleconference (column 28, lines 47-58).

Regarding claims 2, 16 and 18, Weisman discloses a method, further comprising selecting the teleconference based on when the user requests to join the teleconference (column 28, lines 47-58).

Regarding claims 3 and 19, Weisman discloses a method, wherein the request indicates the location of the user, and wherein learning the location of the user comprises reading the location from the request (column 27, lines 41-61).

Regarding claims 4 and 20, Weisman discloses a method, wherein learning the location of the user comprises querying a location system operable to determine the location of the user (column 27, lines 41-61).

Regarding claims 5 and 21, Weisman discloses a method, wherein the location system comprises a mobile position center and a position determining entity (column 24, lines 4-9).

Regarding claims 6 and 22, Weisman discloses a method, wherein the mobile position center receives the location of a mobile subscriber terminal operated by the user from the position determining entity, wherein the mobile position center forwards the location of the mobile subscriber terminal to the CCSS (column 24, lines 30-37).

Regarding claims 7 and 23, Weisman discloses a method of claim 5, wherein the position determining entity is operable to process position information obtained from a mobile subscriber terminal (column 24, lines 53-62).

Regarding claims 8, 10, 24 and 26, Weisman discloses a method, wherein the CCSS comprises a switch and a service control point, and wherein receiving the request from the user comprises: the switch receiving a feature code as dialed digits from a device operated by the user (column 23, lines 39-54); and the switch providing the feature code in a signaling message to the service control point (column 23, lines 39-54).

Regarding claims 9 and 25, Weisman discloses a method, wherein the service control point has logic that correlates conferences with location and subject matter, and wherein identifying the conference based on the location and the subject matter comprises: the service control point referring to the logic to find a conference that matches the 5 location and subject matter (column 23, lines 39-54).

Regarding claims 11 and 27, Weisman discloses a method, wherein instructing the switch to connect the user to the teleconference comprises providing the switch with a routing number to which the switch should connect the call (column 23, lines 39-54).

Regarding claims 12 and 28, Weisman discloses a method, wherein the CCSS comprises a media server on a packet-switched network, and wherein receiving the request from the user comprises: the media server receiving a session invitation message from a device operated by the user (column 23, lines 1-22).

Regarding claims 13 and 29, Weisman discloses a method, wherein the session invitation message comprises a Session Initiation Protocol INVITE message (column 30, lines 12-20).

Regarding claims 14 and 30, Weisman discloses a method, wherein joining the user into the teleconference comprises: the media server entering into a packet-based real-time media conference leg with the device operated by the user, wherein the media server bridges the conference leg with conference legs of other users participating in the teleconference (column 29, lines 34-58).
